

Intermediate Registration Assignment:

This is your child's first assignment and part of the registration package.

To ensure prompt processing of your child's registration, this needs to be submitted with your child's application.

Below are some fairly common situations. Have your child pick one to complete. Have them continue writing about it by telling "What Happened Next". Space is provided on the back of this page. It is okay to brainstorm ideas with your child, but all work should remain unedited by the parent. Suggest to them that instead of using the predictable, they should reach out for an idea that is unexpected, unusual, or different. Encourage them to go into enough detail to bring the story to life.

Pick one to complete:

1. It was Noah's first time camping out.
"Don't be scared," Rebekah said.
"Who? Me scared?" scoffed Noah.
Then they heard a noise in the bushes behind them.
2. Shaylene was in trouble again. She stood for a minute staring at the closed door that led to the principal's office. Then, she took a deep breath, opened the door, and...
3. "Just never go up to the attic," warned his grandmother.
"Why?"
"Just don't. You can do anything else while you're here visiting me. Just never go up to the attic."
"O.K. If you say so."
4. "If you knew a good friend of yours were being forced into a fight, would you help him?"
David asked.
"That depends," answered Brian.
"What do you mean?" asked Jesse.
5. Mr. Soames had the sharpest eyes and hearing of any teacher in the school. He also trusted nobody. Cheating on his tests was impossible, and when someone tried and got caught, it was nothing to laugh about. But there was one boy who was sure he could outsmart him.
6. My uncle decided to teach me how to fish.
"I want you to be as good a fisherman as I am!" he said.
We walked to the pond. My uncle showed me how to set up the fishing pole, how to bait the hook, and how to cast the line. Finally I was ready.
My uncle said, "Okay, now this is your first try! You probably won't catch a thing today, but you're just a beginner. When you're experienced like me, you'll really catch fish! Ready? Cast!"
I cast - and as soon as the baited hook hit the water, I felt a terrific tug on the line!
